

School helped to recycle old desks and seats

SHIRENEWTON School was overwhelmed by the generosity and help shown by Homemakers - Monmouthshire's furniture re-use/recycling project when faced with the thankless task of clearing out a large amount of redundant desks and chairs.

Jayne Edwards of Shirenewton Primary School said: "We were so grateful to Homemakers who brought two large vans and carried out all the hard work for us in efficient and professional manner.

"They took all the old chairs and desks back to their base in Abergavenny where volunteers dismantled them with all the metal being recycled locally. If we had even found another clearance service I very much doubt we would have found one who would have taken the trouble to recycle as much as Homemakers."

Shaun Needle of Homemakers said: "Being an educational charity we are very proud of our relationship with local schools. We were only too glad to help out.

"We have a long standing relationship with Shirenewton School and many other schools in the county through our educational talks to pupils via the eco schools programme."
